

Contributors/Contributeurs

A former contributor to Acadiensis, L. F. S. Upton is a member of the History Department at the University of British Columbia. His best known work is The Loyal Whig: William Smith of New York and Quebec.

Judith Fingard is a member of the history department of Dalhousie University and the author of The Anglican Design in Loyalist Nova Scotia 1783-1816.

A graduate of Mount Allison, Dalhousie and Queens Universities, E. R. Forbes is a member of the Department of History at the University of New Brunswick.

Ian MacPherson is a member of the history department of the University of Winnipeg. His doctoral thesis on the Canadian co-operative movement was completed for the University of Western Ontario.

A graduate of Cambridge University, Jed Martin teaches at the National Australian University.

One of the most distinguished scholars of the Atlantic Region, W. S. MacNutt is a professor emeritus at the University of New Brunswick.

Rod Campbell is Director of Professional Development for the New Brunswick Teachers Association.

Eric Ross returned to his native New Brunswick in 1972 to set up the geography department at Mount Allison University. He is author of Beyond the River and the Bay.

Charles Phythian-Adams is lecturer in the Department of English Local History at the University of Leicester.

D. M. G. Sutherland is a member of the Department of History at Brock University.

A graduate of Gonzaga, Columbia, Regis and McGill Universities, Joseph Gavin is Professor of Historical Theology at Regis College, Toronto.