

Contributors/Collaborateurs

David Alexander and Gerry Panting are members of the Maritime History Group at the Memorial University of Newfoundland.

Ian Ross Robertson teaches at Scarborough College, University of Toronto and has previously contributed to Acadiensis on P.E.I. subjects.

Carman Miller is a member of the History Department of McGill University. An earlier version of his paper was delivered at the second Atlantic Canada Studies Conference in Fredericton in April 1976.

Jack Bumsted is a Professor of History at Simon Fraser University, currently visiting at the University of Edinburgh.

Dale Cogswell works at the Provincial Archives of New Brunswick.

Bill Godfrey is a member of the History Department of Mount Allison University, but is currently on leave.

Gregory S. Kealey teaches history at Dalhousie University and is the editor of Labour/Le Travailleur.

Robert Cockburn is a member of the English Department at the University of New Brunswick. His publications include Ninety Seasons: Modern Poetry from the Maritimes, which he co-edited with Robert Gibbs.

Martin S. Spigelman received his Ph.D. from Dalhousie University and now teaches history at Erindale College, University of Toronto.

A frequent contributor to Acadiensis, L.F.S. Upton is a Professor of History at the University of British Columbia.

Peter Toner teaches history at the University of New Brunswick in Saint John.

John A. Eagle is a member of the History Department of the University of Alberta.