Congrès de la Société du Canada, 1984

Le congrès de la Société historique du Canada se tiendra en 1984 à Guelph, Ontario, à l'Université de Guelph, 90 km à l'ouest de Toronto. Le comité du programme invite les membres, les historiens et les collègues d'autres disciplines à proposer des sujets de communication ou de séance. Trois thèmes ont été privilégiés pour ce congrès: le dix-huitième siècle, l'histoire rurale, et l'histoire ethno-culturelle nord-américaine. Comme d'habitude, des communications dans des domaines de l'histoire canadienne, américaine, européenne, asiatique, africaine ou d'autres secteurs seront présentées. Une sélection des communications sera publiée dans le Communications Historiques de la SHC.

Les personnes intéressées à proposer un sujet de communication ou de séance sont priées d'écrire au président du comité du programme ou à un de ses membres: Terry Crowley (Histoire, Guelph), président; Pierre Tousignant (Histoire, Montréal) et Jack Bumsted (Histoire, Manitoba), coordinateurs pour le dix-huitième siècle; Norman Séguin (Histoire, Québec à Trois-Rivières) et Donald Akenson (Histoire, Queen's), coordinateurs pour l'histoire rurale; Howard Palmer (Histoire, Calgary), coordinateur pour l'histoire ethno-culturelle; Kathleen McCrone (Histoire, Windsor), coordinatrice pour les regroupements des chercheurs de la SHC; Phil Buckner (Histoire, UNB); Jamie Snell (Histoire, Guelph).
