

CONTRIBUTORS

Dr. Ewan W. Anderson is a member of the Department of Geography at the University of Durham. For the past three years he has been working on a United Kingdom Ministry of Defence project entitled "The NATO Alliance and the Warsaw Pact: Raw Materials and Energy Procurement to 2000."

Adam Bromke is a member of the Department of Political Science at McMaster University in Hamilton, Ontario. He recently received a research grant from the Social Sciences and Humanities Research Council of Canada which enabled him to visit Poland in the spring of 1982 and to observe conditions under the military regime.

Ernest Evans is Assistant Professor in the Politics Department of Catholic University in Washington, D.C. He received his Ph.D. in Political Science from M.I.T. in 1977 and is author of Calling a Truce to Terror: the American Response to International Terrorism (1979). He is currently writing a book on the U.S. military and unconventional war. This is his second article in Conflict Quarterly on revolutionary movements.

Norman Frankel is presently an assistant professor and Government Documents/Map Librarian at Western Michigan University. In 1979-1980 he served as Book Review Editor of Terror Watch (formerly Intersearch) the newsletter of the International Terrorist Research Center. In 1981 Professor Frankel was a visiting lecturer at Queen's University, Belfast, Northern Ireland.

Richard T. Oakes is a Professor of Law at Hamline University School of Law in Minnesota. Previous publications have been concerned with American Indian Law, law and procedure and drug laws. "Illuminating Gabriel's Tunnel" was prepared with the assistance of Ms. Jodi Williamson who is working under a graduate research fellowship in "Terrorism and the Law."

Will. C. van den Hoonaard received his PhD from the University of Manchester in 1977. He is Director of Atlantic Regional Studies Programme and Assistant Professor of Sociology, University of New Brunswick. He is former Alternate Representative Baha'i International Community to the United Nations. His research interests include social change, development, complex organizations, Icelandic society and the Native Indian in contemporary society.