

CONTRIBUTORS

Jonathan Alford is Deputy Director of the International Institute of Strategic Studies in London, England. He served in the Royal Engineers from 1951 to 1977, retiring in the rank of Colonel. He was a Defence Fellow at King's College, London, from 1976 to 1977.

G. Patrick Armstrong is Head, War Game Methodology Section in the Directorate of Land Operational Research, National Defence Headquarters, Ottawa. A graduate in philosophy from the University of Toronto, he received a Ph.D. in War Studies from King's College, University of London, in 1976.

Field Marshal Lord Carver was commissioned in the British Army in 1935. His service in the Second World War included command of a tank brigade in North West Europe. He became Chief of the General Staff (Army) in 1971, and was Chief of the Defence Staff from 1973 to 1976. His most recent books are War Since 1945 (1980) and A Policy For Peace (1982).

Ernest Evans is Assistant Professor of Politics at the Catholic University in Washington, D.C. He is the author of several books and numerous articles on American involvement in low-intensity conflict.

Peter C. Kent is Chairman of the Department of History at the University of New Brunswick. A graduate of the University of New Brunswick (B.A. 1959), he received his Ph.D. from the London School of Economics in 1978. His most recent major work is The Pope and the Duce (1981).

Vittorfranco S. Pisano is a lawyer specializing in Italian and comparative security matters. A graduate of Georgetown University, he holds a Doctorate in Juridical Science from the University of Rome. Formerly Senior Foreign Law Specialist (European Division) at the Library of Congress, he has written widely on terrorism and intelligence matters.