

THE EDITORIAL BOARD

The Executive Board of Conflict Quarterly has instituted some changes to streamline the management of the journal. The Executive Board has been abolished and merged with the Advisory Board. David Charters has been appointed Executive Editor, in which capacity he has been functioning informally for the past few years. As such he will take responsibility for overall direction and management of the Quarterly. Linda Hansen has been formally appointed as Manuscript Editor, in which position she will continue her excellent work of turning raw manuscripts into polished articles. Deborah Stapleford becomes Circulation Manager with responsibility for monitoring, maintaining and expanding our readership.

Terrence Willett and Brian Grosman, who were instrumental in launching the Quarterly, have graciously agreed to stand down from the Advisory Board to make way for new members. In this capacity, the Executive Editor is pleased to welcome Professor Francis Coghlan, Professor of American diplomatic history at the University of New Brunswick. More appointments are expected in due course.