

CONTRIBUTORS

Steve Bruce is lecturer in sociology at Queen's University, Belfast, Northern Ireland. He is author of Firm in the Faith: The Survival of Conservative Protestantism (Gower, 1983) and No Pope of Rome: Militant Protestantism in Modern Scotland (Mainstream, 1984), and is currently writing a sociological account of Ian Paisley's Democratic Unionist Party and the Free Presbyterian Church of Ulster.

Paul Marantz is Associate Professor of Political Science and a specialist on the Soviet Union at the University of British Columbia. He is joint editor of Superpower Involvement in the Middle East: Dynamics of Foreign Policy (Westview, 1985).

James B. Motley is Director, National Security Studies at Defense Systems Inc., in McLean, Virginia. A Vietnam veteran, he holds a PhD from Catholic University and is widely published in the field of low-intensity conflict.

Maurice Tugwell was Director of the Centre for Conflict Studies from 1980-1986. Following a career in the British Army, he received his PhD in War Studies from the University of London. As Director of the Centre, he lectured and published widely on various aspects of low-intensity conflict. He is now a freelance writer and consultant, but will remain on the Editorial Advisory Board of the Quarterly.