

CONTRIBUTORS

Hisham H. Ahmed teaches political science at Florida International University. He is a specialist in the study of American foreign policy and Middle East politics, and has written recently on the Basque ETA movement.

Lucian Ashworth holds an M.A. in Political Science from Dalhousie University. He has studied in both Britain and Canada, and is currently involved in free-lance research.

David A. Charters is Director of the Centre for Conflict Studies.

Loraleigh Keashly is Assistant Professor of psychology at the University of New Brunswick. Her field of expertise is social psychology with particular emphasis on third party mediation of disputes.

Reuben Miller is Assistant Professor of political science at the University of Northern Colorado. He has published works and taught courses on governments' policies and responses to international terrorism.

W. Andrew Terrill teaches International Relations in the Department of Political Science and Geography at Old Dominion University, Norfolk, Virginia. He has published several articles on Middle Eastern international politics. This is his fourth contribution to Conflict Quarterly.

Maurice A.J. Tugwell is director of the Mackenzie Institute in Toronto. Dr. Tugwell was Director of the Centre for Conflict Studies between 1980 and 1986. Among his many publications is Peace With Freedom (1988).