

CONTRIBUTORS

Jefferson Adams is Professor of History at Sarah Lawrence College in Bronxville, New York, where he teaches a course on intelligence in modern history. He has written several articles on East German state security and is currently at work on a full-scale institutional study.

G.P. Armstrong is a Soviet analyst in the Department of National Defence, Ottawa. He received his PhD in War Studies from King's College, London. He has written extensively on Soviet foreign policy and military affairs and is a frequent contributor to Conflict Quarterly.

Kenneth Bush is a doctoral student in the Government Department of Cornell University. He received his MA in International Affairs from the Norman Paterson School of International Affairs, Carleton University, Ottawa. In 1986-1987 he held a Shastri Indo-Canadian Institute Fellowship to study Tamil in South India.

G. Davidson-Smith works for the Ministry of the Solicitor General of Canada. He received a PhD in International Relations from the University of Aberdeen.

Roger Hamburg is Chairman of the Department of Political Science at Indiana University at South Bend. He has taught at the University of Wisconsin and Marquette University, and held a fellowship at the Harvard Center for International Affairs. He teaches and writes in the field of Soviet foreign policy.

F.W. Parkinson is a Naval Lieutenant in the Canadian Forces serving at National Defence Headquarters, Ottawa. He graduated from Royal Roads Military College in Victoria, BC in 1983 with a BA in Military and Strategic Studies.

Cyrus Vakili-Zad is a post-doctoral fellow at the Center for Middle Eastern Studies, Harvard University, and Assistant Professor of Sociology at the University of Hartford, Connecticut. He has taught in Iranian universities both before and after the revolution. His areas of specialty are the Sociology of Development, Political Sociology, and Social Movements.

William L. Waugh, Jr. is Associate Professor at the Institute of Public Administration, Georgia State University. He is author of International Terrorism: How Nations Respond to Terrorism (1982) and Terrorism and Emergency Management: Policy and Administration (1990).