

CONTRIBUTORS

Thomas P. Anderson teaches history at Eastern Connecticut State University, Willimantic.

Ian F. W. Beckett is Senior Lecturer in War Studies at the Royal Military Academy, Sandhurst. He is co-editor of the journal Small Wars and Insurgencies. Among his many books is The Roots of Counter-Insurgency: Armies and Guerrilla Warfare, 1900-1945 (1988).

Ernest Evans is an assistant professor in the Department of Politics and Economics at Christendom College, Front Royal, Virginia. He is author of Calling a Truce to Terror: The American Response to International Terrorism (1979), and Wars Without Splendor: The U.S. Military and Low-Level Conflict (1987).

Michael Hennessy is a doctoral candidate in the Department of History, University of New Brunswick. His master's thesis examined U.S. Marine Corps pacification operations in I Corps in Vietnam. He contributed a chapter entitled "The Uncounted Enemy: A Vietnam Deception? Revisited," to Deception Operations: Studies in the East-West Context (1990).

Marilynn M. Larew teaches courses on the Vietnamese wars and terrorism in the Department of History at the University of Maryland, College Park. She is preparing a readings book on terrorism for publication, and is presently studying operations in northern I Corps in Vietnam during the first four months of 1968.

John McGarry is Assistant Professor of Political Science at King's College, University of Western Ontario. In addition to publishing articles on ethnic conflict in several journals, he is the co-editor of The Future of Northern Ireland (1990), and co-author of The Politics of Antagonism: Explaining Northern Ireland (forthcoming).

Brendan O'Leary is Senior Lecturer in the Department of Government, London School of Economics. He has published in several journals, and among his books are Theories of the State (1987), and The Asiatic Mode of Production (1989).

Henry Patterson is Reader in Politics at the University of Ulster, Jordanstown. He is author of a number of books on Modern Irish politics and the Northern Ireland conflict, including his most recent work The Politics of Illusion: Republicanism and Socialism in Modern Ireland (1989).

Douglas L. Wheeler is Professor of Modern History at the University of New Hampshire, Durham. He was Richard Welch Fellow in Advanced Research in Intelligence History at the Center for International Affairs, Harvard University in 1984-85.

Joanne Wright is a lecturer in International Relations in the Department of Government, The University of Queensland, Australia. She has published articles on European defence and her book Terrorist Propaganda will be published by Macmillan this year.