

CONTRIBUTORS

Francis Coghlan is Professor of History at the University of New Brunswick and is a member of the Editorial Advisory Board of Conflict Quarterly. He is a specialist in American diplomatic history with an especial interest in the Philippines and Central America.

Paul C. Forage is with the Department of East Asian Studies of the University of Toronto.

Glenn P. Hastedt is Associate Professor of Political Science at James Madison University in Virginia. His primary area of research in the field of intelligence policy relates to problems of strategic surprise and intelligence failures. His latest publication is Controlling Intelligence (1991).

Anthony James Joes is Professor of Politics and Director of the International Relations Program at Saint Joseph's University. His most recent books are: From the Barrel of a Gun: Armies and Revolutions (1986) and The War for South Viet Nam (1989).

S. Paul MacKenzie teaches history at the University of British Columbia. He is the author of a forthcoming book on current affairs education in the British Army (1914-1950), and is currently working on the history of the Home Guard and Prisoner of War diplomacy.

Michael McKinley is Lecturer in International Relations and Strategy in the Department of Political Science, The Australian National University. His fields of specialization include subnational violence in which area he is currently engaged in a study of the international dimensions of the Northern Ireland conflict.

Richard S. Newell is Professor of History and Asian Studies at the University of Northern Iowa. Among his publications is (with Nancy Peabody Newell) The Struggle for Afghanistan (1981).

David Scott Palmer is Professor of International Relations and Political Science at Boston University. Previous positions include Chair of Latin American and Caribbean Studies at the State Department's Foreign Service Institute, and Visiting Professor at the Catholic University of Peru (Lima), and the University of Humananga (Ayacucho). He has written extensively on Peru; his latest effort is the forthcoming edited volume The Shining Path of Peru.

Stephen C. Pelletiere is a National Security Affairs Analyst at the Strategic Studies Institute, U.S. Army War College. He is author of the books, The Kurds: An Unstable Element in the Persian Gulf (1984), and the soon to be published Chaos in a Vacuum: the Iran-Iraq War.

Scot P. Saltstone practices law with the Ontario Ministry of the Attorney General. He received law degrees from the University of Western Ontario and Ottawa University where he wrote a Master's thesis on security and intelligence legislation in Canada. He has taught at both Nipissing University and Laurentian University.

A. Jeyaratnam Wilson is Professor of Political Science at the University of New Brunswick. His most recent publications are The Break-Up of Sri Lanka: The Sinhalese-Tamil Conflict, and his forthcoming S.J.V. Chelvanayakam and Ceylon-Tamil Nationalism: A Political Biography.

Frank Wright lectures in the Department of Politics at Queen's University, Belfast. He is author of Northern Ireland: A Comparative Analysis (1987). He also co-authored an article on the British withdrawal from Northern Ireland in the Fall 1990 issue of Conflict Quarterly.

Clarence R. Wyatt is Assistant Professor of History at Centre College, Kentucky. He obtained his PhD at the University of Kentucky and his dissertation "Paper Soldiers: the American Press in Vietnam," will be published by Norton later this year.