

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

As was the case with the first volume in this series, we would like to extend our thanks to the Canadian Security and Intelligence Service for their permission to reprint these documents. In addition, we would like to acknowledge the legal work of William Kaplan of the University of Ottawa who has aided us immensely with both his legal and historical knowledge.

In addition, we owe a debt of gratitude to a number of archivists at the National Archives of Canada who have provided expert advice over the years; out thanks to Danny Moore, Peter DeLottinville, Glenn Wright, Judith Roberts Moore, and Gerry O'Brien. We also note the hard work of numerous Access to Information staff members at the Archives, especially Bob Hayward (which should tell readers how long this project has been in the making), Carol White, and Nancy McMahon.

On the production side we would like to thank Margaret Gulliver, Sheila Silver, and Joan Butler for their keyboarding talents and above all for their patience. Proofreaders and indexers have included Christina Burr, Sean Cadigan, Gene Long, and Mark Leier. As always Irene Whitfield has overseen the project with enthusiasm and diligence.

For details on the nature of CSIS deletions and the editorial apparatus used to indicate them, please see the "Preface" to Kealey and Whitaker, R.C.M.P. Security Bulletins: The War Series, 1939-1941 (St. John's, 1989), 7-8. Please keep in mind that the Bulletins are rendered here as we found them. Spelling and other errors are the responsibility of the RCMP.
