

At this juncture may it be understood that these recommendations stemmed from the intention that the Moot Court should serve as a non-compulsory, practical course of instruction, in order to avail the students of any benefit.

The third-year students may possibly have experienced some measure of chagrin with regard to a plan suggesting that they assume a more preparatory role in favour of usurping Barristers. But whatever their reasons for discontent they most generously consented to a compromise which permitted the committee to stage an exhibition Moot Court. Mr. J. H. Drummie, K. C., acted as Chief Justice and was ably assisted by Messrs. F. S. Taylor and D. M. Gillis acting as Puisne Judges. The hypothetical case was prepared by the Faculty advisory committee and pleaded by both second and third-year students.

It is hoped most sincerely that the third-year students will take advantage of the opportunity afforded them to plead cases before experienced men and that they will become infected by the interest shown by several of their number.

SOCIAL COMMITTEE

This year our Social Committee is made up of Ted Gilbert, Wally Macaulay, Len Fournier and Miss Camille Robichaud. Their first and most important assignment was to organize the Law School Ball, which took place on November 4th. Without a doubt the Law School Ball measured up to our fondest expectations (although we did lose financially). The decorations, food and music were splendid. Everybody seemed to have a fine time.

From now on the Social Committee will be looking after the small informal parties that take place after debates and moot courts. If everything goes off as well as last year, we will have plenty of fun at these gatherings.

But while the Law School works and plays all thoughts will be on our second term party. Last year we held it at the El Belgrano and it was a thoroughly entertaining event. Let us hope we can obtain the same facilities again this year, and enjoy the dancing, eating and sing-song at the end of the evening.

SPORTS COMMITTEE

The Sports Committee have organized a bowling league among the students of the School with teams from the different years competing. The league meets every Tuesday night and it is open to wives and lady friends of the students as well.

Great interest has been shown so far, with a good turnout every Tuesday night. It is hoped by the Sports Committee that they will be able to organize a badminton league after Christmas. However, for the present the Saint John High School have kindly opened their gym to the Law Students for badminton on Saturday afternoons.
